The London NYC New York City

Style sanctuary Architect David Collins, who has created interiors for Madonna, is the designer of the London NYC. Rooms meant to look like stylish English flats have parquet floors in the living area and herringbone carpet in the bedroom.

Bed surround A wraparound headboard holds lacquered side tables and adjustable reading lights, along with a bed dressed in crisp Egyptian cotton.

Hazy hues Collins started with two metals for the rooms' color plans: "With silver, we chose cool blue tones, and then we paired gold with warm rose, a flattering color that you don't see often." 151 W. 54th St., 866-690-2029, thelondonnyc.com. —Kathryn Harris
