NEW SPAS TO LOSE YOURSELF IN

A little R and R is just what the doctor ordered. And as luck would have it, this past year delivered a bumper crop of superlative spas from Macau to Mexico. Our reviewers left no hot stone unturned in their effort to identify transcendent spots for head-to-toe pampering—rejecting scores of also-rans in the process.

»Udaipur, India
Taj's barge, floating at anchor on Lake Pichola, provides a novel stage for a spa treatment.

HOT SPAS

sun setting over New Mexico's desert hills during the 15-minute drive from Santa Fe's city center. Tranquil indeed, but that's nothing compared with the hippy-dippy vibe you'll have adopted after a few hours at the spa at the Encantado resort (see "Hot List"), a cluster of freestanding buildings with a warm, welcoming aura. It's the perfect place to balance your dosha in the hour-long Abhyanga, a friction massage that calms, revs circulation, and leaves you warm and rosy-cheeked. Arrive early to sweat in the sauna and hot tub, nestled amid trees and dry grasses, and since you should let the massage's essential oils soak in to reap their detoxifying benefits, spend après-treatment time sipping Ayurvedic tea and nibbling on nuts in the cozy "warming room" (505-946-5890; massages, $155). 🍵 🧖 🌿

Caudalie Spa at the Plaza Hotel »New York, New York

Manhattan's ultimate name-drop pamper den—see how "my last facial at the Plaza" flies with your friends—doesn't disappoint, from the first glass of vino sipped (via sommelier) in the French Paradox wine lounge to a pleasant hour or two spent in one of the 14 wood-paneled, candlelit treatment rooms. The spa uses aromatic grape-based Vinotherapie products devoid of parabens and sulfates in its facials, which are customized to skin type and have already drawn a cult following: Carla Bruni and Betsey Johnson are fans.

IF YOUR BOD'S BROKE, TRY A BARREL BATH—THE GRAPE MARC VARIETY HAS YOU MARINATING IN A JACUZZI CUM CASK

We loved the antioxidant facial, in which sprays, lotions, and masks are used to purify and soothe smog-ravaged skin. But if your bod's broke, try a Barrel Bath—the Grape Marc variety has you marinating in a Jacuzzi cum cask filled with exfoliating grape extracts. Our only complaint: Staff are too numerous and overbearing, leaving four minutes max between check-ins (212-265-2182; massages, $85–$295). 🍷 🧖 🍇

ESPA at the Peninsula »New York, New York

The meditative yin to bustling Fifth Avenue's yang, the Peninsula's new ESPA is a polished acacia and bamboo cave. Step off the elevator onto the twenty-first floor and immediately feel coddled—by signature ESPA herbal fragrances and the staff, who are attentive but not bothersome. Deeper into the cave is the relaxation room, equipped with plush beds and headphones tuned to Zen-like sound tracks. Treatments begin with a tea ceremony and range from an oil-controlling tea tree and thyme facial to an aromatherapy massage that eliminates jet lag. For the ESPA stamp, splurge on the Spirit of Peninsula body treatment, which goes from a footbath to a salt massage to a detoxifying mask in two hours. Guests are encouraged to while away a whole afternoon here: After your treatment, hit the tea lounge and "thermal suite," with steam rooms, ambient "experience" showers, ice fountains, and saunas; or take a dip in the glass-enclosed pool upstairs (212-956-2888; massages, $195). 🍵 🧖 🌿

Sense, a Rosewood Spa, The Carlyle »New York, New York

The Upper East Side grande dame hotel remained faithful to its Art Deco roots with the decor of its petite new jewel-box Rosewood Spa. The chandelier-spangled space has a shades-of-gray palette, with paneled walls, velvet sofas, black-and-white Kenzo Izu portraits, and an extravagant platinum-tiled mosaic tunnel leading to five crepuscular treatment rooms. Treatments are lavish and intensive—and at $195 for a 60-minute massage, they should be; even your ears are given a serious sloughing during the Carlyle Signature Ritual, which uses an array of Sisley products and an arsenal of apparatuses, including a mini suction device to smooth wrinkles. Amenities are limited to a steam room in the men's and women's glossy white changing areas, and there's an Yves Durif hair salon for that post-buffing blowout (212-660-7560; massages, $195). 🍵 🧖 🌿

Shibui Spa, Greenwich Hotel »New York, New York

From the warm ginger tea given to guests on arrival to the red kimonos and lemongrass-scented eye mask applied during treatment, every detail at the Shibui Spa has been considered. Located in the basement of the Greenwich Hotel (see "Hot List"), this Asian-style spa takes its name from the Japanese word for "a subtle and unobtrusive approach"—a concept it takes very seriously. Treatments focus on balancing the body systems by combining organic handmade products such as soy protein, lotus essences, and granulated walnut. The Watatsumi Algae ritual detoxifies and soothes with a sea kelp and algae massage, followed by a heat wrap and a cleansing body scrub. Afterwards, as you lounge by a stunning azure pool surrounded by lanterns, beneath the roof of a 250-year-old bamboo farmhouse, it's possible to forget that frenetic New York is just outside the door (212-941-8900; massages, $210–$310). 🍵 🧖 🌿

» EDIBLE EMOLLIENTS

No longer relegated to the spa café, food is featured in lotions, masks, and serums.

Ambassade de la Beauté, Paris

This facial mecca uses yeast to ease inflammation and soothe redness.

Sense, a Rosewood Spa at Little Dix Bay, British Virgin Islands

A Caribbean heaven, it cooks up scrubs and wraps from mangoes, pineapples, and coconuts harvested on the isle.

Spa at Encantado, Santa Fe

Treatments' corn and honey components come from the high desert environs.

CRÈME AUX ACIDES DE FRUITS
Ambassade de la Beauté, Biologique Recherche's Paris flagship, uses natural ingredients to brighten and hydrate in its fragrance-free botanical creams.

Stoneleigh Spa »Dallas, Texas

This jewel-toned spa, tucked in the basement of the Stoneleigh Hotel (see "Hot List"), has a little bit of everything: locally inspired treatments like the Maple Avenue Body Butter Wrap, vinotherapy using the Mondavi wine family's Davi Skin-care line, and dosha-balancing therapies inspired by Ayurvedic philosophy. The most popular menu item, however, is the Jet Setter Recovery Rx, a combination of Swedish and hot stone massage tailored to travel-related aches. Relaxation loungers are gender-specific—for the women, plush seating and dim lighting; for the men, flat-screen TVs (214-871-7111; massages, $70–$195). 🍷 🧖 🌿

2009

THE YEAR'S 140 TOP NEW HOTELS*

*including 43
UNDER
$250 A NIGHT

Consider it a silver lining: Hot hotels continue to open in record numbers despite the recent economic overcast, and many are more affordable than ever. Of the thousands that made their debut in the last year, we checked into the most promising—incognito—measuring up the service, trying out the beds, and sampling the food. The 140 properties that passed our scrutiny make up the largest Hot List yet, proving that the standards for excellence haven't slipped; in fact, they've only risen. Spanning 53 countries (including new-to-the-list destinations Israel, Mongolia, Peru, Slovenia, and Zimbabwe), they range in size from a three-pavilion hideaway an hour north of Sydney to a 2,034-room high-rise on the Vegas Strip, and in room rates from $89 at an invitingly accoutred Palm Springs hot spot with a pool straight out of a David Hockney print to $2,050 for a sprawling safari tent in northern Botswana. Such bright choices make the forecast easier to weather.

contemporary. Indeed, the renovation's greatest triumph may be its restraint; while the rooms (and particularly the bathrooms) may be small, they're also boldly outfitted with Art Deco-inspired metallic wallpapers and color-blocked curtains. When to go: Year-round, but late spring and early summer bring big waves and sunny skies. Which room to book: Be sure you're in the historic wing, in a Beachview room (808-923-7311; royal-hawaiian.com; doubles, $370–$570). 🏠 📶 🚰 🌿 🍷 🛏

The Blackstone, Chicago, Illinois

🔥 312-447-0955; marriott.com; doubles, $270–$369. 🏠 📶 🚰

Dana Hotel and Spa, Chicago, Illinois

🔥 Hyper-stylish and bathed in natural light and textures, most rooms in the 26-story high-rise have floor-to-ceiling windows lasciviously exposed (should you opt not to use the blackout curtains) to neighboring offices and condos. The vibe is simultaneously spare and plush, with industrial-cement ceilings, ribbed wallpaper, indecently comfortable beds, and metallic velour textiles. All rooms have spa-inspired bathrooms and the latest gadgetry, including fully stocked wine chillers. The spa, booked solid on weekends, offers a greatest hits menu of moderately priced massages, facials, and wraps. The Dana has a choice location between North Michigan Avenue and the River North dining and gallery district, but reserve a table if you want to go to its duplex steak and sushi restaurant, Ajastek, a new neighborhood hot spot. The rooftop Vertigo Sky Lounge has a glassed-in bar and an outdoor fire pit where the city's remaining smokers can light up with impunity. When to go: Year-round. Which room to book: Nirvana Suites, designed as pied-à-terres, have kitchens, dining tables, balconies, and cocktail party-sized spa showers with multiple jets (312-202-6000; danahotelandspa.com; doubles, $245–$395). 🏠 📶 🚰 🌿 🍷 🛏

Hotel Ivy, Minneapolis, Minnesota

🔥 Minneapolis's frigid winters are famous, so it's only fitting that this hotel takes icy minimalism to a breathtaking extreme. The cavernous lobby is an elegant study in sharp edges, marble, glass, and winter-white fabrics, which lends it a mid-century modern air. Remarkably, with a little help from the gracious staff, the overall effect is warm and welcoming. The economy of design extends to the 136 spare but comfortable rooms. The marble-clad bathrooms are nearly as large as the bedrooms, and each has a separate soaking tub with city views. Twenty-one handsomely appointed suites are located in the adjacent Ivy Tower, a compact office building built in 1930; this ziggurat-style edifice also houses a top-notch spa, a gym, and a two-story restaurant. It may all be a bit staid for trendy types, but for grown-ups in search of comfort and style, this is the address. When to go: Year-round for the Twin Cities' extensive arts and cultural offerings. Which room to book: A Grand Deluxe, because standard rooms are small (612-746-4600; starwoodhotels.com; doubles, $144–$299). 🏠 📶 🚰 🌿 🍷 🛏

Encore Wynn, Las Vegas, Nevada

🔥 702-770-7000; encorelasvegas.com; suites, $250–$900. 🏠 📶 🚰 🌿 🍷 🛏

Encantado, Santa Fe, New Mexico

🔥 Just north of town, in the rustic "suburb" of Tesuque, this new resort from the team behind Napa Valley's Auberge du Soleil gives visitors a taste of the wild—stars in the night sky, the yelp of coyotes—while catering to every urban need. That means a superb restaurant (Terra), an outpost of one of Santa Fe's most influential galleries, and a spa that melds herbal rituals and beauty treatments. More subtly, it means assured service, radiant heating under the polished-concrete floors, and a bottle of the excellent local Gruet sparkling wine. Set amid rolling hills, the 65 casitas are Southwestern minimalist: pine ceiling beams, wood-burning fireplaces, a single black-and-white Native American basket hung above the soaking tub. The resort's one aesthetic weakness is the central parking lot, which is visible from the sprawling pool and from most rooms. When to go: In October, when the air is crisp and cool. Which room to book: Suites 63, 64, and 65 have outdoor fireplaces and a prime location at the top of a hill (877-262-4666; encantadoresort.com; doubles, $500–$600). 🏠 📶 🚰 🌿 🍷 🛏

Greenwich Hotel, New York, New York

🔥 Like Robert De Niro's previous business ventures in TriBeCa, his Greenwich Hotel is a well-timed success. Behind the unassuming brick facade is a mountain lodge meets ryokan ambience. The drawing room has a fireplace, plush mismatched couches, a wood-beamed ceiling, and knickknacks from all over the world. This rustic theme is carried out in the 88 spacious guest rooms—but don't let the distressed look fool you. All are luxuriously kitted out and have complimentary mini-bars. The large underground pool is the hotel's pièce de résistance: Set beneath a 250-year-old bamboo roof and reclaimed wood, it's a rare find in spatially limited Manhattan. The only weak point here is the restaurant, Ago, with its mediocre Italian food and spotty service. When to go: Year-round. Which room to book: Room 502, a Greenwich Room, has French doors that open onto a quiet courtyard (212-941-8900; thegreenwichhotel.com; doubles, $475–$695). 🏠 📶 🚰 🌿 🍷 🛏

Singita Pamushana Lodge, Malilangwe Wildlife Reserve

🔥 In a landscape inhabited by black and white rhinos, kudu, and predator cats, the thatched main lodge and six villas overlook Malilangwe Lake (a seventh villa, with five bedrooms and a James Bondish disappearing window, was exclusively used by the lodge's owner until recently). Each villa has a lofty ceiling, a huge shower tiled by a local artist, and a plunge pool with a sweeping view. Standstone fireplaces and walls painted in chevrons are in harmony with fabrics that, with the carved artwork, remind you that Zimbabwean handicrafts and handiwork are among Africa's best. Those wary of the steep rates should note that all of the profits go back into the community, to a program that feeds 25,000 kids a day, and to rehabilitating this former hunting ground. Until Zimbabwe's economy comes around, all the ingredients for your meals—tuna steak, vegetable aspic, artichoke salad—arrive via charter plane from South Africa. The coffee, though, is local and good. When to go: March through June and August through November. Which room to book: Room 1 has the best view from the shower and the plunge pool (27-21-683-3424; singita.com; doubles, $1,600, all-inclusive). 🏠 📶 🚰 🌿 🍷 🛏
